

EASTERN HIGH SCHOOL WINS CADET HONOR

Officers of Student Regiment Announced by Education Board Committee.

Samuel J. Leonard, a student at Eastern High School, will be commissioned colonel of the high school regiment for the year 1912-13, according to announcement by the military affairs committee of the Board of Education today. Leonard's appointment makes the honor go to Eastern High for the second consecutive year. H. Burton Lowe being the colonel last year.

J. L. Tunstall, a Central High student, will be named lieutenant colonel. The majorships of the First, Second, and Third Battalions fall, respectively, to Francis Martin, Central High; Ralph Ogilvie, Eastern High; and H. C. Gilbert, McKinley Manual Training High. That school also gets the regimental adjutant and quartermaster'ship. R. W. Wilson being selected to be adjutant, and L. F. Kirehner to be quartermaster.

The military affairs committee, which consists of President Oyster and Members Daniel and Blair, will make a formal report at the Board of Education meeting this afternoon on these commissions.

Something of a storm cloud is hovering over this afternoon's session of the board, and it is rumored that E. R. Horner, a colored member, again will vigorously oppose the recommendation that A. K. Savoy be transferred to the Burville School.

At the last meeting of the board action in this matter was held up at the request of Mr. Horner, who believes that Miss F. E. Turner is being unjustly passed over. Miss Turner has been a fourth grade teacher at the Burville School, which now has three higher grades. At the Board of Education and Superintendent of Schools' offices today it was stated that Miss Turner is not eligible to a seventh grade unless she jumps three grades, which would be unfair to teachers ahead of her.

AFFINITY TO TELL OF WIFE'S SUICIDE

Philadelphia Girl Will Defend Man Charged With Uxoricide.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 15.—The prosecution in the trial of Allison V. MacFarland, charged with the murder of his wife, Evelyn, closed before Judge Gorman in the Court of Oyer and Terminer today before it opened. Attorney Frank M. McDermitt, for the defense, announced that MacFarland would take the stand. Mr. McDermitt declared that he was opposed to MacFarland's testimony but that his client had overruled his counsel.

The lawyer also said that Miss Florence Bromley, of Philadelphia, MacFarland's affinity, would testify and reveal her relations with MacFarland. MacFarland's contention is that his wife committed suicide after she learned of his relations with the Philadelphia girl.

Bryan Urges Voters Not To Mind Colonel's Wound

COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 15.—William Jennings Bryan, addressing 2,000 people here this forenoon, opened by deploring the great misfortune which had befallen Colonel Roosevelt, and assured his audience that Democrats deplore it as deeply as do the Progressives.

Mr. Bryan discussed national and State candidates, urging the voters not to permit Roosevelt's misfortune to distract their attention from the great issues of the campaign and to elect a Democratic President and Congress.

GROGERS FINED FOR NOT CLEANING UP STORE BUILDINGS

Health Department Wages Hot War on Adulterations and Uncleanliness.

Demanding that the sanitary regulations be rigidly enforced, the Health Department is conducting a vigorous campaign for cleanliness in grocery stores. In the interest of the consumer the department is keeping a close watch also on markets and all places where food products are sold and handled, and at the same time the wharves and freight depots in order that no goods may be delivered in Washington that are unfit for consumption.

As the result of prosecution instituted in the Police Court last week, two grocers forfeited $5 each for the sale of adulterated lard; four forfeited $5 each for failure to keep their stores clean; one was fined $5 for failure to screen against flies, and three forfeited $5 each for maintaining dirty stores. Two wagon drivers forfeited $2 each on the charge of transporting meals and other foods through the streets without protection against rain and dirt. The total amount of food condemned was as follows: potatoes, six bushels; mackerel, two dozen; beef, eleven pounds; mutton, twelve pounds; bacon, twenty-five pounds; pickles, seven barrels; cucumbers, twenty-five, and peaches, nine, and half bushels.

Referring to the grocery stores, the trouble, according to officials of the Health Department, is principally with the smaller establishments which cater to the poorer classes.

The owners, it is said, are not brought into court except as a last resort. Warrants to clean up the premises are given by an inspector, and if disregarded a warrant is obtained. The usual fine is $5, although the maximum penalty is $25 fine.

KALLIPOLIS GROTTTO OFF TO RICHMOND

Veiled Prophets Will Be Entertained as Guests of Virginia Capitalites.

Wearing their "elf" and carrying with them their most handsome costumes, 156 members of Kallipolis Grotto, No. 12, Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, left Washington at noon today for Richmond, where this afternoon and evening they will be the guests of the Samis Grotto of that city.

The Samis Grotto members will take them on a "joy ride" over the city, and later there will be a dinner at Hotel Richmond. The members of the Samis Grotto and Kallipolis Grotto will march to the Grotto hall where the "fresh meat" will be placed before the "altar." More than 100 candidates will be initiated into the mysteries of the grotto for the benefit of the Washington visitors.

Raymond H. Dickey, monarch, headed the local party. Among other officers going were Jesse F. Grant, chief justice; Everett W. Hawkins, master of ceremonies; Joseph H. Chan, treasurer; H. L. Strang, Jr., secretary; Charles F. Burlingame, marshal; William Norbeck, captain of the guard; Thomas B. Walker, sentinel; A. B. Douglas, sargeant; Irving S. Hall, grand chamberlain; Frank K. Raymond, charon; H. Wunder, chant; Harry G. Minster, cerberus; E. W. Libbey, Rhadamanthus; J. W. Collins, and Robert S. Barrett, orators. Among the "imps" who made the journey were Floyd W. Brooks, Leon L. Friedrich, Richard E. Gibson, George K. Baier, Wade H. Atkinson, William H. R. Brandenburg, Grafton D. P. Bailey, Lawrence R. Dufour, Edwin M. Miasbrouck, John H. Ladd, J. Ernest Mitchell, William O. Owens, Edward S. Schmidt, and John H. Shreve, past monarchs were also in the party.

Army Aviators Go To Fort in Kansas

Lieutenants Arnold, Hennessy and Milling, of the army aviation corps, left Washington today for Fort Riley, Kan., where experiments will be conducted in the use of aeroplanes in connection with field artillery.

It is expected that before the experiments have been concluded there the aviation school will have been moved South for the winter.

RANSOM PAID FOR AMERICAN HELD BY MEXICAN REBELS

Money Demanded for Ranch Manager McCormick Sent by Company.

Five thousand dollars in gold have been sent by the Palomas Land and Cattle Company to the Mexican rebel chieftain who kidnapped John McCormick, manager of the ranch, and has been holding him for ransom at that figure at the Cino de Mayo mines. A dispatch to this effect was received by the State Department today. Another report, which has not been confirmed, comes from the American vice consul at Juarez stating that the $5,000 demanded for the ransom of John F. Cameron has been sent to the rebels who are holding him.

Cameron is a wealthy cattle dealer. His wife was with him at Juarez before he was seized on a Mexican Northwest train Sunday morning, and it is believed that she, fearing the rebels might injure or kill her husband if the demands were not met, has sent the large sum demanded by them.

General Aubert, one of the commanders in northern Mexico of Mexican federal troops, stated that he wished to send an armed escort with Cameron, but that the railroad officials refused to permit it.

Sister-in-Law on Stand.

Seventeen-year-old Anna Giesner, sister-in-law of Jack Rose, was the next witness. She told of an occasion when Mr. and Mrs. Becker called at the Rose home and remained there for dinner. She could not fix the date more closely than the latter part of June, but her testimony was corroborative of Mr. Becker's testimony. When Mr. Becker testified that he and his wife were in the room when the girl was killed, she testified that she and her husband were in the room when the girl was killed, and that she had seen a body on the sidewalk.

Murder trials are not supposed to be humorous affairs and justices bend severe glances upon flippant witnesses, but Scheppe somehow dispelled the gravity of the proceedings and lightened the black tale of crime. Even the austere judge permitted his eyes to twinkle and some of the jurors laughed outright.

But the amusing characteristics of the State's principal corroborator of the testimony he gave against Lieutenant Becker, resisting every device of Mr. McIntyre to trap him into admitting he was an accomplice with Rose, Webber and Vallon and insisting that the murder he talked with Becker in Becker's house and that Becker sent this message to Rose:

"Don't mind anything. I'll fix it all right. I want to prove who killed Rose. Rosenthal before they can convict anyone."

And Scheppe added that Becker, in the darkened dining room of the apartment, wouldn't let him smoke and said: "Don't light that match. Somebody is across the street and they are a light they will suspect something. They have been trailing me all day."

Calls McIntyre Liar.

Scheppe was an exasperating witness to Mr. McIntyre. He had the dimmest of memories for times and date, but he had an extraordinary faculty for recalling previous statements, and he frequently contradicted the lawyer. Mr. McIntyre resorted to the traditional methods of hectoring and storming and flat shaking, but Scheppe hectored and stormed and gazed at him.

Once he called Mr. McIntyre a liar for saying he had paid the gunmen, and while Mr. McIntyre was fuming before the jury that Scheppe was lying, "a creature," the witness was suavely

I. C. C. Is Hearing Biggest Rate Case

The Interstate Commerce Commission today began its hearing on the Western classification, the big rate case that has ever been before the commission. Nearly every freight rate north and west of the Ohio river is involved in the case.

Besides systematizing and unifying these rates it is considered probable that the commission will make some reductions in rates now in vogue and proposed by Western and transcontinental railroads.

WOMAN TELLS STORY THAT MAY CONVICT BECKER

Mrs. Rosenthal Says Lieutenant Was "Friend" of Husband.

to the World building, where Becker went inside, and remained about twenty minutes. From there they started up town, and Avers dropped Sullivan from the car at the corner of sixth avenue and Forty-second street. This was at 1:30, he said, and he then took Becker directly home.

The witness positively denied that he had driven Becker in the car past the Metropole Hotel. He said Jack Rose came to his home after the murder and said he was ill. He was taken care of and at Rose's request, he (Pollack) went to headquarters and told Becker that Rose was in the hospital.

He said that Becker told him that it was a good place for Rose to remain for a while, Becker then took note of Pollack's phone number and the house address and said he would get in touch with Rose.

The next that I heard of Rose was in the Tomb, said Pollack.

McIntyre asked only one question.

"You told Becker Rose was ill at Rose's request?"

"I did," said the witness.

PRESIDENT GOES TO WORCESTER, MASS.

Strongly Guarded in Hotel in New York Last Night.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—President Taft left here for Worcester, Mass., soon after 8 o'clock and the police who had been detailed to guard him since the attempted assassination of ex-President Roosevelt fell decidedly relaxed.

President Taft, Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft spent the night at the Hotel Grand Central Station a heavy cordon of Secret Service men, detectives and policemen guarded the party. Central Office detectives patrolled the corridors outside of the President's room all night.

President Taft expressed deep gratification before leaving to learn that Mr. Roosevelt's condition was no worse, and he expressed his hope that the colonel would soon be well.
